“ I happened to see this looking up American History. 28 years ago I lost my baby girl. Karen Elizabeth. Have strength, the years do ease things. While nothing can replace this precious soul you had for such a short time, know he is in Gods hands, the best to be in. I wish I could tell you there is an easy way to get through the hard times. I see from the Obit you also have a daughter. When my brother passed and left his 2 year old son behind, I stepped in and made him a scrapbook, and did and still do things my brother would have done. We planted a Christmas tree for him and decorated it, taught him to planted veggies. Things where we could grieve together and yet remember the very best! Do that with your daughter, it helps. God Bless you, your daughter and know your son is with Christ.
