Mrs. Reid, known to her family and friends as "Lynn," daughter of Allie Marie Sellers-Reid and Fred Henry Reid, was born in Augusta, GA. Lynn could be found at home crafting. She was always working on something whether it be needle point, macrame crosses, ribbon wreaths, jewelry, and table center pieces. She attended Word of Life Ministries where she employed her creative crafting skills by making them a large cross for their door. When Mrs. Reid was not crafting, she was a beach lover, a swimming fanatic, and collector of jewelry boxes. Another notable trait was how much Mrs. Reid loved her late and great dog George. She was an animal lover. But also, held in high esteem her nephew, Jacob Story. He held the key to her heart. She refused to decorate her tree for Christmas without him. Those two would camp and fish. Mrs. Reid thought he was the greatest thing ever. She was very proud of him and attended all his football games. She was his biggest fan.

She is survived by her mother Marie Allie Reid and father Fred Reid; her brother, Fred Jamison Reid (Carrie); her aunts, Faye Story and Annette; her cousin, David; her host of nieces and nephews who she thought the world of;

her very best-friend and cousin, Selina Dixon whom she chatted endlessly on the phone with.
