“ Ms. Helen was an energy burning bright and moved like a searing comet. I've only met her barely a year ago. One hundred degrees...sweat pouring and my face beet red as I and my daughters were unloading an uhaul about 3 houses down the street.
My eldest, the new resident , and I had exchanged a colorful dialogue about her late arrival to unload her possessions. Here comes Helen with a walker, recently released from hospital after surviving near death surgery with a cute German accent...asking me how I'm doing and telling me about her dear friend that lived in the house years ago. I fell in love...we connected instantly. Ms. Helen you made such an impression ...we were kindred spirits! Tell Marvin hello for me and I look forward to meeting him one day! This is not goodbye but see you later. I will miss you dearly in the meantime. I love you little German girl...give them hell. Sandy💕💕
