“ Bubba,
I loved you from the start. I loved you from the moment I knew I was pregnant with you. I prayed for you everyday of your 19 years. You was my baby boy and became one of my best friends. Lol whose gonna be the tie breaker in the house now. Your daddy and sister keep trumping me. You lived everything and everyone and could always go either way. Which made you perfect for breaking the ties. I wish more people knew how big your heart was, how you in your own way was always trying to help people. You had a warriors heart and soul. I don't think anyone knew that better than me. You always put yourself in bad spots just so you could help the ones already there. Son, I am so proud of the man you became, I wish you could still be here everyday, I wish you could have fulfilled your hopes and dreams. I know God had other plans for you and called you home early. I don't like it one single bit. Momma misses you so much every second of everyday. Sometimes I feel like I can't even breathe. You took my heart with you. I can't wait to join you. I love you so much Big boy.
